Bequest and Estate Gifts

A bequest is a gift from your estate—a transfer of cash, securities, or other property made through your estate plans. You can make a bequest to UCEAP by including language in your will or living trust leaving a portion of your estate to UCEAP or by naming UCEAP as a beneficiary of your retirement account or life insurance policy.

Remembering UCEAP with a bequest from your estate will help sustain and strengthen the program in years to come. Some of the advantages of creating a bequest include:

- A bequest costs nothing now, yet gives you the satisfaction of knowing you have provided for UCEAP in the future
- You retain control of and use of your assets during your lifetime
- Gifts to UCEAP from your estate are exempt from federal estate taxes
- May be designated for a particular purpose or left unrestricted
- Used to establish or add to an existing endowed fund (only the annual payout on which may be used) or a current fund (both annual payout and principal may be used)
- Given to honor the donor or memorialize a loved one
- If you let us know of your plans, we will be able to thank you now and recognize you as a member of our Legacy Society

Types of Charitable Bequests

Unrestricted bequest: This is a gift for general purposes, to be used at the discretion of the Associate Vice Provost and Executive Director. A gift like this—without conditions attached—is frequently the most useful, as it allows UCEAP to determine the wisest and most pressing organizational need.

Residuary bequest: This is a gift of all the "rest, residue and remainder" of your estate after all other bequests, debts and taxes have been paid.

Restricted bequest: This type of gift allows you to specify how the funds are to be used. It's best, however, to consult UCEAP when you make your will to be certain your intent can be fulfilled.

Endowed fund: This bequest allows you to restrict the principal of your gift, requiring us to hold the funds permanently and use only a small percentage or the income they generate. Creating an endowment in this manner means that your gift can continue giving indefinitely. Note that endowed funds have minimum required amounts.
Sample Bequest Language

We have sample bequest language for many types of gift opportunities.
